“ Hey baby.. My heart is heavy today for you. You were my first love. I remember the first time you told me you loved me. Outside of the cheveron gas station in your mommas blue truck.. You grabbed my hand and said i love you.. And i loved the sound of it that i kept having you repeat it over and over.. I remember when you didnt want to be just friends anymore.. Chris was bringing someone to meet me that was working out of town with him and Paul.. And you didnt like that. we were in your moms room and you said he is gonna try to hook MY GIRL up with someone.. Why would he even think that was okay. And your mom and i looked at each other and said oh.. So im/your his girl now i guess.. And we all 3 laughed.. And ever sense then we were inseparable. You were all i knew for my entire 20s we had moments.. Highs and lows.. Good and bad times.. We both fell short at times.. Made choices and decisions we could one day not be proud of. But i knew you had my back no matter what.. It didnt matter where or when or even what you could do.. But you were gonna be there. I love you alfred.. Lmao remember when i found out that your name was alfred.. Lol gah.. I miss you.. I wanna hear you sing me our song again.. That was the only thing that kept me going when we went to jail in Hueytown.. You singing me that song and the sound of your voice. Lol remember when you mocked me because they came and took everything and put me in a suicide smock.. You said.. Are you cold yet?.. no response i bet you wont say that again huh and i said f you and you started laughing.. Gah what i would give to hear your laugh again.. I love you alfred joel stewart.. Thank you for the good memories and the bad we both experienced. Thank you baby for giving me these two beautiful little girls i am blessed to have.. You WILL NEVER be forgotten and OUR girls do know who you are. You will be a regular topic of conversation in our household. Always and forever Forever and always No matter what I promise, i love you! Love Wubbs
