“ Wanting to send my love to the family. Losing a loved one is in itself such an indescribable pain, but losing someone so young is just beyond comprehension. I don't think anything can describe how wrong it is. There's a few scriptures that have brought me so much comfort when I've thought of loved ones that have died. 1 Corinthians 15:26 tells us that even God views death as an enemy, and He promises He will destroy it and the hurt that it brings. And Revelation 21:4 promises that God will wipe away all our tears and their causes. I hope these comfort you also.
