“ I loved her like my own mother. She was a shining example of a Christian woman. She was loving, kind, faithful, gentle, forgiving, tolerant, and non-judgmental. She was the best mother any child could ever ask for, and the best friend anyone could ever have. The world will be a sadder, smaller place without her smiling face and shining countenance. She definitely made an impact on not only my life, but the lives of many others, with her example of Christian goodness and joy.
